

Coaching: Detailed information

Coaching for leaders: supervision, inspiration, support for development

Individual coaching for German executives and managers

With his knowledge, experience and competence Dr Hans-Jörg Keller challenges his coachees as a sparring partner with methods and interventions from systemic coaching, transaction analysis, neuro-communication, intercultural research and executive coaching. He thus supports them in achieving their professional objectives.

Intercultural coaching for German leaders

In his intercultural coaching processes, Dr Hans-Jörg Keller supports executives, managers and project leaders to co-operate effectively with people from different cultures. He analyzes their challenges and gaps between goals and current reality, encourages them to create new strategies, challenges them to embrace new cultural perspectives and supports them in developing their intercultural competence.

Individual coaching for foreign leaders in Germany

In his coaching for foreign executives, managers and experts in Germany, Dr Hans-Jörg Keller combines approaches from systemic coaching, transaction analysis and intercultural research. He familiarizes his coachees with important German cultural values and analyzes the corporate culture of their company. He helps them to understand their own stereotypes and biases, to overcome their inner resistance and to develop successful strategies to achieve their professional goals.

Coaching of multicultural teams

In his team-coaching Dr Hans-Jörg Keller combines approaches and methods from group dynamics (Tavistock Institute), systemic coaching, transaction analysis and intercultural research. Together with the leader and team members he analyzes the challenges of teamwork, compares objectives and status quo, supports the team in creating successful strategies and encourages his coachees to use the cultural diversity of the team as well as individual potentials for successful collaboration.

Coaching of virtual teams

In his collaboration with virtual teams Dr Hans-Jörg Keller steers the overall process, creates a framework for preparing, realizing and evaluating team-meetings via video conference or phone, analyzes together with the team the most important challenges, supports the leader and team-members to manage conflicts in a constructive, respectful way, and encourages them to create new successful strategies.

Please ask for more information via e-mail: office@keller-leadership.com